TABLE OF CONTENTS

Foreword
1. The Postmodern Search for a Way and the Christian Imitation	11
1.1. Introduction	11
1.2. Central-European Life after the Regime Change	12
1.3. Meaning of Postmodernism, and its Effects	13
1.3.1. Postmodern Man	15
1.3.2. The Church's Relation to the Social Changes	16
1.4. Christian Belief and Reflection to Life Stories	18
1.5. Life Story Work as a Possible Model	19
2. The Question of Human Subject in Practical Theology	21
2.1. Introduction	21
2.2. The Importance of Social Contextuality in Practical Theology	22
2.2.1. The Empirical Turn	22
2.2.2. Hermeneutics Coming to the Fore	24
2.3. Human Subject as the Point of Orientation in Practical Theology	26
2.4. Subjective Theologies	29
2.4.1. Poetic Transformation	30
2.4.2. Transcendental Reduction, Religion as an Answer to the Meaning of Life	32
2.5. The Role of Life Stories in Practical Theology	36
2.5.1. The Religious Dimension of Life Stories	37
2.5.2. The Presence of God in Human Lives	39
3. The Man Living in his Stories	41
3.1 Introduction	41
3.2. The Modern Theories of Human Identity and Belief	42
3.2.1. The Reflection of the Modern Image of man in the Identity Theories	4.4.

Table of Contents

		3.2.2	Conceptions in Developmental Psychology and the Piaget Fundamentals	47
			3.2.2.1. A Shift towards Contextuality	53
			3.2.2.2. Faith as "Style"	57
			3.2.2.3. The Influential Questioning-effect.	61
			3.2.2.4. The Simultaneous Presence of Schemata and
			Themata in the Life Story Narratives	62
			3.2.2.5. What is Left Out of Faith Development Theories	63
	3.3.	Parac	ligm Shift in Postmodernism	64
		3.3.1.	The Propagation of Narrative Thinking	65
			3.3.1.1. From Project-identity to Life Story	65
			3.3.1.2. The Concept of Narrative Identity	68
			3.3.1.3. The Role of Schemata in Identity Formation	69
			3.3.1.4. Comparison of Paradigmatic and Narrative Thinking	70
		3.3.2.	The Theological Relevance of Narrative Approach	73
			3.3.2.1. The Language of Narrative Thinking and of Religion	73
			3.3.2.2. The Relationship between Narrative and Orientation	74
ŀ.	The	Life S	tory and the Christian Meta-narrative	77
	4.1.	Intro	duction	77
		4.1.1.	The Role of Stories in Human Life	78
		4.1.2.	Relationship between our Life Story and Identity	79
	4.2.	From	Event to Life Story	80
		4.2.1.	The Role of Patterns in Narrations	82
		4.2.2	Life Story Screenplays	83
		4.2.3	The Role of Time Levels	84
		4.2.4.	The Self-forging in the Intermediate Area	85
		4.2.5	The Hermeneutics of Self	86
	4.3.	Poetr	y and Reality in Life Stories	88
		4.3.1.	Hermeneutical Imperative	89
		4.3.2	The Medial Parlance	90
		4.3.3	Inner Tradition-forming	91
		4.3.4.	The Illusion of the Life Story	91
		4.3.5.	The Autobiographical Pact	93
		4.3.6.	Reciprocity of the Narrator and the Listener	93
		4.3.7.	The Problem of the Addressee in the Case of Life Stories	94
		4.3.8.	God as Co-author	95
	4.4.	The C	Common Story of God and Human	97
		4.4.1.	Christian Religion as an Interpretational System	97

Table of contents

4.4.4. Becoming Part of the Christian Story 4.4.5. Believer as a "Carrier of Meaning" 4.4.6. Life Story Reinterpreted 4.4.7. Remembering the Way and Becoming Subject for God 4.5. Summary 107  5. Mythobiography and Life Story 5.1. Conception and Method 109 5.1.1. Methods of Interviewing 110 5.1.2. Choosing the Subjects 112 5.1.3. The analytical Method 113 5.1.4. Assessment Criteria 114 5.2. Analyses 115 5.2.1. Szabolcs's Story 115 5.2.1. The Final Questions of Life without a Religious Explanation 116 5.2.1.2. Evaluation 117 5.2.2. Ildiko's Story 118 5.2.2.1. The Relationship of Sport and Religion 119 5.2.2.2. A Religious Plateau-Experience 5.2.2.3. Evaluation 121 5.2.3. Zoltán's Story 122 5.2.3.1. Connection to Church and the "DIY-faith" 123 5.2.3.2. Evaluation 124 5.2.4. Tamás's Story 125 5.2.4.1 Religious World View without Christian Community? Disappointment in Church 5.2.4.2. Faith as Hermeneutics 127 5.2.4.3. Evaluation 128 5.2.5. Vilmos's Story 129 5.2.5.1. "It takes all kinds to take the world!" Religion as the Place of Meaning Formation 129 5.2.5.2. Evaluation 130 5.2.6. Katalin's Story 131 5.2.6. Katalin's Story 131 5.2.6. Katalin's Story 131 5.2.6. Katalin's Story 131 5.2.6. Limit-situations of Life and the Stabilizing Function of Religion		4.4.2. God's Presence in Human Life Story	99
4.4.5. Believer as a "Carrier of Meaning"  4.4.6. Life Story Reinterpreted  4.4.7. Remembering the Way and Becoming Subject for God  4.5. Summary  107  5. Mythobiography and Life Story  5.1. Conception and Method  5.1.1. Methods of Interviewing  5.1.2. Choosing the Subjects  5.1.3. The analytical Method  5.1.4. Assessment Criteria  5.2. Analyses  5.2.1. Szabolcs's Story  5.2.1.1. The Final Questions of Life without a Religious  Explanation  5.2.2. Ildikó's Story  118  5.2.2. Ildikó's Story  119  5.2.2.1. The Relationship of Sport and Religion  110  5.2.2. Zoltán's Story  121  5.2.3. Zoltán's Story  121  5.2.3. Lonnection to Church and the "DIY-faith"  123  5.2.3. Evaluation  124  5.2.4. Tamás's Story  125  5.2.4.1. Religious World View without Christian Community?  Disappointment in Church  5.2.4.2. Faith as Hermeneutics  5.2.4.3. Evaluation  128  5.2.5. Vilmos's Story  129  5.2.5.1. "It takes all kinds to take the world!" Religion  as the Place of Meaning Formation  129  5.2.5.2. Evaluation  130  5.2.6. Katalin's Story  131  5.2.6. Katalin's Story  131  5.2.6. Katalin's Story  132		4.4.3. Christian Worldview as the Hermeneutics of Life	101
4.4.6. Life Story Reinterpreted 4.4.7. Remembering the Way and Becoming Subject for God 4.5. Summary 107  5. Mythobiography and Life Story 5.1. Conception and Method 5.1.1. Methods of Interviewing 5.1.2. Choosing the Subjects 112 5.1.3. The analytical Method 5.1.4. Assessment Criteria 114 5.2. Analyses 5.2.1. Szabolcs's Story 5.2.1.1. The Final Questions of Life without a Religious Explanation 116 5.2.2.1. Evaluation 117 5.2.2. Ildikó's Story 118 5.2.2.1. The Relationship of Sport and Religion 119 5.2.2.2. A Religious Plateau-Experience 120 5.2.2.3. Evaluation 121 5.2.3. Zoltán's Story 121 5.2.3. Lonnection to Church and the "DIY-faith" 123 5.2.3.2. Evaluation 124 5.2.4. Tamás's Story 125 5.2.4.1. Religious World View without Christian Community? Disappointment in Church 5.2.4.2. Faith as Hermeneutics 5.2.4.3. Evaluation 128 5.2.5.1. "It takes all kinds to take the world!" Religion as the Place of Meaning Formation 129 5.2.5.2. Evaluation 130 5.2.6. Katalin's Story 131 5.2.6. Katalin's Story 131 5.2.6. Katalin's Story 132 5.2.6.1. Limit-situations of Life and the Stabilizing Function of Religion 132		4.4.4. Becoming Part of the Christian Story	102
4.4.7. Remembering the Way and Becoming Subject for God 4.5. Summary  5. Mythobiography and Life Story 5.1. Conception and Method 5.1.1. Methods of Interviewing 5.1.2. Choosing the Subjects 5.1.3. The analytical Method 5.1.4. Assessment Criteria 114 5.2. Analyses 115 5.2.1. Szabolcs's Story 5.2.1.1. The Final Questions of Life without a Religious Explanation 5.2.1.2. Evaluation 117 5.2.2. Ildiko's Story 118 5.2.2.1. The Relationship of Sport and Religion 119 5.2.2.2. A Religious Plateau-Experience 120 5.2.2.3. Evaluation 121 5.2.3. Zoltán's Story 121 5.2.3. Lonnection to Church and the "DIY-faith" 123 5.2.3. Evaluation 124 5.2.4. Tamás's Story 5.2.4.1. Religious World View without Christian Community? Disappointment in Church 5.2.4.2. Faith as Hermeneutics 127 5.2.4.3. Evaluation 128 5.2.5. Vilmos's Story 129 5.2.5.1. "It takes all kinds to take the world!" Religion as the Place of Meaning Formation 129 5.2.5.2. Evaluation 130 5.2.6. Katalin's Story 131 5.2.6. Katalin's Story 132 5.2.6.1. Limit-situations of Life and the Stabilizing Function of Religion 132		4.4.5. Believer as a "Carrier of Meaning"	103
4.5. Summary 107  5. Mythobiography and Life Story 109 5.1. Conception and Method 109 5.1.1. Methods of Interviewing 110 5.1.2. Choosing the Subjects 112 5.1.3. The analytical Method 113 5.1.4. Assessment Criteria 114 5.2. Analyses 115 5.2.1. Szabolcs's Story 115 5.2.1.1. The Final Questions of Life without a Religious Explanation 116 5.2.1.2. Evaluation 117 5.2.2. Ildikó's Story 118 5.2.2.1. The Relationship of Sport and Religion 119 5.2.2.2. A Religious Plateau-Experience 120 5.2.2.3. Evaluation 121 5.2.3. Zoltán's Story 121 5.2.3. Lonnection to Church and the "DIY-faith" 123 5.2.3.2. Evaluation 124 5.2.4. Tamás's Story 125 5.2.4.1. Religious World View without Christian Community? Disappointment in Church 126 5.2.4.2. Faith as Hermeneutics 127 5.2.4.3. Evaluation 128 5.2.5. Vilmos's Story 128 5.2.5.1. "It takes all kinds to take the world!" Religion as the Place of Meaning Formation 129 5.2.5.2. Evaluation 131 5.2.6. Katalin's Story 131 5.2.6. Limit-situations of Life and the Stabilizing Function of Religion 132		4.4.6. Life Story Reinterpreted	104
5. Mythobiography and Life Story 5.1. Conception and Method 5.1.1. Methods of Interviewing 5.1.2. Choosing the Subjects 5.1.3. The analytical Method 5.1.4. Assessment Criteria 5.1.4. Assessment Criteria 5.2. Analyses 115 5.2.1. Szabolcs's Story 5.2.1.1. The Final Questions of Life without a Religious Explanation 116 5.2.1.2. Evaluation 117 5.2.2. Ildikó's Story 118 5.2.2.1. The Relationship of Sport and Religion 119 5.2.2.2. A Religious Plateau-Experience 120 5.2.2.3. Evaluation 121 5.2.3. Zoltán's Story 121 5.2.3. Zoltán's Story 122 5.2.3. L'almás's Story 123 5.2.4.1. Religious World View without Christian Community? Disappointment in Church 5.2.4.2. Faith as Hermeneutics 5.2.4.3. Evaluation 128 5.2.5. Vilmos's Story 5.2.5.1. "It takes all kinds to take the world!" Religion as the Place of Meaning Formation 129 5.2.5.2. Evaluation 130 5.2.6. Katalin's Story 131 5.2.6. Katalin's Story 132 5.2.6.1. Limit-situations of Life and the Stabilizing Function of Religion 132		4.4.7. Remembering the Way and Becoming Subject for God	105
5.1. Conception and Method       109         5.1.1. Methods of Interviewing       110         5.1.2. Choosing the Subjects       112         5.1.3. The analytical Method       113         5.1.4. Assessment Criteria       114         5.2. Analyses       115         5.2.1. Szabolcs's Story       115         5.2.1.1. The Final Questions of Life without a Religious       Explanation         5.2.1.2. Evaluation       117         5.2.2.1. The Relationship of Sport and Religion       119         5.2.2.2. A Religious Plateau-Experience       120         5.2.2.3. Evaluation       121         5.2.3. Zoltán's Story       121         5.2.3.1. Connection to Church and the "DIY-faith"       123         5.2.4. Tamás's Story       125         5.2.4. Religious World View without Christian Community?       125         Disappointment in Church       126         5.2.4.2. Faith as Hermeneutics       127         5.2.4.3. Evaluation       128         5.2.5. Vilmos's Story       128         5.2.5. Levaluation       129         5.2.5. Evaluation       131         5.2.6. Katalin's Story       131         5.2.6. Limit-situations of Life and the Stabilizing       132		4.5. Summary	107
5.1. Conception and Method       109         5.1.1. Methods of Interviewing       110         5.1.2. Choosing the Subjects       112         5.1.3. The analytical Method       113         5.1.4. Assessment Criteria       114         5.2. Analyses       115         5.2.1. Szabolcs's Story       115         5.2.1.1. The Final Questions of Life without a Religious       Explanation         5.2.1.2. Evaluation       117         5.2.2.1. The Relationship of Sport and Religion       119         5.2.2.2. A Religious Plateau-Experience       120         5.2.2.3. Evaluation       121         5.2.3. Zoltán's Story       121         5.2.3.1. Connection to Church and the "DIY-faith"       123         5.2.4. Tamás's Story       125         5.2.4. Religious World View without Christian Community?       125         Disappointment in Church       126         5.2.4.2. Faith as Hermeneutics       127         5.2.4.3. Evaluation       128         5.2.5. Vilmos's Story       128         5.2.5. Levaluation       129         5.2.5. Evaluation       131         5.2.6. Katalin's Story       131         5.2.6. Limit-situations of Life and the Stabilizing       132
5.1.1. Methods of Interviewing       110         5.1.2. Choosing the Subjects       112         5.1.3. The analytical Method       113         5.1.4. Assessment Criteria       114         5.2.2. Analyses       115         5.2.1. Szabolcs's Story       115         5.2.1. The Final Questions of Life without a Religious       116         5.2.1.2. Evaluation       117         5.2.2. Ildikó's Story       118         5.2.2.1. The Relationship of Sport and Religion       119         5.2.2.2. A Religious Plateau-Experience       120         5.2.2.3. Evaluation       121         5.2.3. Zoltán's Story       121         5.2.3.1. Connection to Church and the "DIY-faith"       123         5.2.3.2. Evaluation       124         5.2.4. Tamás's Story       125         5.2.4.1. Religious World View without Christian Community?       126         5.2.4.2. Faith as Hermeneutics       127         5.2.4.3. Evaluation       128         5.2.5. Vilmos's Story       128         5.2.5. Vilmos's Story       128         5.2.5. Evaluation       129         5.2.5. Evaluation       131         5.2.6. Katalin's Story       131         5.2.6. Katalin's Story       131	5.	Mythobiography and Life Story	109
5.1.2. Choosing the Subjects       112         5.1.3. The analytical Method       113         5.1.4. Assessment Criteria       114         5.2. Analyses       115         5.2.1. Szabolcs's Story       115         5.2.1. The Final Questions of Life without a Religious       Explanation         Explanation       116         5.2.1.2. Evaluation       117         5.2.2. Ildikó's Story       118         5.2.2.1. The Relationship of Sport and Religion       119         5.2.2.2. A Religious Plateau-Experience       120         5.2.2.3. Evaluation       121         5.2.3. Zoltán's Story       121         5.2.3. Zoltán's Story       125         5.2.4. Tamás's Story       125         5.2.4. Religious World View without Christian Community?       126         5.2.4. Religious World View without Christian Community?       126         5.2.4. Faith as Hermeneutics       127         5.2.4. Faith as Hermeneutics       128         5.2.5. Vilmos's Story       128         5.2.5. L'if t takes all kinds to take the world!" Religion       128         5.2.5. Evaluation       131         5.2.6. Katalin's Story       131         5.2.6.1. Limit-situations of Life and the Stabilizing       132		5.1. Conception and Method	109
5.1.3. The analytical Method       113         5.1.4. Assessment Criteria       114         5.2. Analyses       115         5.2.1. Szabolcs's Story       115         5.2.1.1. The Final Questions of Life without a Religious Explanation       116         5.2.1.2. Evaluation       117         5.2.2. Ildikó's Story       118         5.2.2.1. The Relationship of Sport and Religion       119         5.2.2.2. A Religious Plateau-Experience       120         5.2.2.3. Evaluation       121         5.2.3. Zoltán's Story       121         5.2.3.1. Connection to Church and the "DIY-faith"       123         5.2.3.2. Evaluation       124         5.2.4. Tamás's Story       125         5.2.4.1. Religious World View without Christian Community?       126         5.2.4.2. Faith as Hermeneutics       127         5.2.4.3. Evaluation       128         5.2.5. Vilmos's Story       128         5.2.5.1. "It takes all kinds to take the world!" Religion         as the Place of Meaning Formation       129         5.2.5.2. Evaluation       131         5.2.6.1. Limit-situations of Life and the Stabilizing Function of Religion       132		5.1.1. Methods of Interviewing	110
5.1.4. Assessment Criteria       114         5.2. Analyses       115         5.2.1. Szabolcs's Story       115         5.2.1.1. The Final Questions of Life without a Religious		5.1.2. Choosing the Subjects	112
5.2. Analyses       115         5.2.1. Szabolcs's Story       115         5.2.1.1. The Final Questions of Life without a Religious       Explanation         6.2.1.2. Evaluation       116         5.2.2.1. Idikó's Story       118         5.2.2.1. The Relationship of Sport and Religion       119         5.2.2.2. A Religious Plateau-Experience       120         5.2.3. Evaluation       121         5.2.3.1. Connection to Church and the "DIY-faith"       123         5.2.3.2. Evaluation       124         5.2.4. Tamás's Story       125         5.2.4.1. Religious World View without Christian Community?       125         Disappointment in Church       126         5.2.4.2. Faith as Hermeneutics       127         5.2.4.3. Evaluation       128         5.2.5. Vilmos's Story       128         5.2.5.1. "It takes all kinds to take the world!" Religion       129         5.2.5.2. Evaluation       131         5.2.6. Katalin's Story       131         5.2.6.1. Limit-situations of Life and the Stabilizing       132          Function of Religion       132		5.1.3. The analytical Method	113
5.2.1. Szabolcs's Story       115         5.2.1.1. The Final Questions of Life without a Religious       Explanation         5.2.1.2. Evaluation       116         5.2.2.1. Ildikó's Story       118         5.2.2.1. The Relationship of Sport and Religion       119         5.2.2.2. A Religious Plateau-Experience       120         5.2.3. Zoltán's Story       121         5.2.3.1. Connection to Church and the "DIY-faith"       123         5.2.3.2. Evaluation       124         5.2.4. Tamás's Story       125         5.2.4.1. Religious World View without Christian Community?       126         5.2.4.2. Faith as Hermeneutics       127         5.2.4.3. Evaluation       128         5.2.5. Vilmos's Story       128         5.2.5.1. "It takes all kinds to take the world!" Religion       129         5.2.5.2. Evaluation       131         5.2.6. Katalin's Story       131         5.2.6.1. Limit-situations of Life and the Stabilizing       Function of Religion		5.1.4. Assessment Criteria	114
5.2.1.1. The Final Questions of Life without a Religious Explanation  5.2.1.2. Evaluation  117  5.2.2. Ildikó's Story  118  5.2.2.1. The Relationship of Sport and Religion  5.2.2.2. A Religious Plateau-Experience  5.2.3. Evaluation  121  5.2.3. Zoltán's Story  5.2.3.1. Connection to Church and the "DIY-faith"  5.2.3.2. Evaluation  124  5.2.4. Tamás's Story  5.2.4.1. Religious World View without Christian Community?  Disappointment in Church  5.2.4.2. Faith as Hermeneutics  5.2.4.3. Evaluation  128  5.2.5. Vilmos's Story  5.2.5.1. "It takes all kinds to take the world!" Religion  as the Place of Meaning Formation  129  5.2.5. Evaluation  131  5.2.6. Katalin's Story  5.2.6.1. Limit-situations of Life and the Stabilizing Function of Religion  132		5.2. Analyses	115
Explanation 116 5.2.1.2. Evaluation 117 5.2.2. Ildikó's Story 118 5.2.2.1. The Relationship of Sport and Religion 119 5.2.2.2. A Religious Plateau-Experience 120 5.2.2.3. Evaluation 121 5.2.3. Zoltán's Story 121 5.2.3.1. Connection to Church and the "DIY-faith" 123 5.2.3.2. Evaluation 124 5.2.4. Tamás's Story 125 5.2.4.1. Religious World View without Christian Community? 125 5.2.4.2. Faith as Hermeneutics 126 5.2.4.2. Faith as Hermeneutics 127 5.2.4.3. Evaluation 128 5.2.5. Vilmos's Story 128 5.2.5.1. "It takes all kinds to take the world!" Religion 129 5.2.5.2. Evaluation 129 5.2.6.1. Limit-situations of Life and the Stabilizing 131 5.2.6.1. Limit-situations of Life and the Stabilizing 132		5.2.1. Szabolcs's Story	115
5.2.1.2. Evaluation       117         5.2.2. Ildikó's Story       118         5.2.2.1. The Relationship of Sport and Religion       119         5.2.2.2. A Religious Plateau-Experience       120         5.2.2.3. Evaluation       121         5.2.3. Zoltán's Story       121         5.2.3.1. Connection to Church and the "DIY-faith"       123         5.2.3.2. Evaluation       124         5.2.4. Tamás's Story       125         5.2.4.1. Religious World View without Christian Community?       126         5.2.4.2. Faith as Hermeneutics       127         5.2.4.3. Evaluation       128         5.2.5. Vilmos's Story       128         5.2.5.1. "It takes all kinds to take the world!" Religion       129         5.2.5.2. Evaluation       131         5.2.6. Katalin's Story       131         5.2.6.1. Limit-situations of Life and the Stabilizing       132         Function of Religion       132		5.2.1.1. The Final Questions of Life without a Religious
5.2.2. Ildikó's Story  5.2.2.1. The Relationship of Sport and Religion  5.2.2.2. A Religious Plateau-Experience  5.2.2.3. Evaluation  5.2.3. Zoltán's Story  5.2.3.1. Connection to Church and the "DIY-faith"  5.2.3.2. Evaluation  124  5.2.4. Tamás's Story  125  5.2.4.1. Religious World View without Christian Community?  Disappointment in Church  5.2.4.2. Faith as Hermeneutics  5.2.4.3. Evaluation  128  5.2.5. Vilmos's Story  128  5.2.5.1. "It takes all kinds to take the world!" Religion  as the Place of Meaning Formation  129  5.2.5.2. Evaluation  131  5.2.6. Katalin's Story  131  5.2.6.1. Limit-situations of Life and the Stabilizing  Function of Religion  132		Explanation	116
5.2.2.1. The Relationship of Sport and Religion  5.2.2.2. A Religious Plateau-Experience  5.2.2.3. Evaluation  121  5.2.3. Zoltán's Story  5.2.3.1. Connection to Church and the "DIY-faith"  5.2.3.2. Evaluation  124  5.2.4. Tamás's Story  125  5.2.4.1. Religious World View without Christian Community?  Disappointment in Church  5.2.4.2. Faith as Hermeneutics  5.2.4.3. Evaluation  128  5.2.5.1. "It takes all kinds to take the world!" Religion  as the Place of Meaning Formation  129  5.2.5.2. Evaluation  131  5.2.6. Katalin's Story  131  5.2.6.1. Limit-situations of Life and the Stabilizing  Function of Religion  132		5.2.1.2. Evaluation	117
5.2.2.2. A Religious Plateau-Experience 5.2.2.3. Evaluation 121 5.2.3. Zoltán's Story 121 5.2.3.1. Connection to Church and the "DIY-faith" 123 5.2.3.2. Evaluation 124 5.2.4. Tamás's Story 125 5.2.4.1. Religious World View without Christian Community? Disappointment in Church 126 5.2.4.2. Faith as Hermeneutics 127 5.2.4.3. Evaluation 128 5.2.5. Vilmos's Story 128 5.2.5.1. "It takes all kinds to take the world!" Religion as the Place of Meaning Formation 129 5.2.5.2. Evaluation 131 5.2.6. Katalin's Story 131 5.2.6.1. Limit-situations of Life and the Stabilizing Function of Religion 132		5.2.2. Ildikó's Story	118
5.2.2.3. Evaluation  5.2.3. Zoltán's Story  5.2.3.1. Connection to Church and the "DIY-faith"  5.2.3.2. Evaluation  124  5.2.4. Tamás's Story  125  5.2.4.1. Religious World View without Christian Community?  Disappointment in Church  126  5.2.4.2. Faith as Hermeneutics  127  5.2.4.3. Evaluation  128  5.2.5. Vilmos's Story  128  5.2.5.1. "It takes all kinds to take the world!" Religion  as the Place of Meaning Formation  129  5.2.5.2. Evaluation  131  5.2.6. Katalin's Story  131  5.2.6.1. Limit-situations of Life and the Stabilizing  Function of Religion  132		5.2.2.1. The Relationship of Sport and Religion	119
5.2.3. Zoltán's Story 5.2.3.1. Connection to Church and the "DIY-faith" 123 5.2.3.2. Evaluation 124 5.2.4. Tamás's Story 125 5.2.4.1. Religious World View without Christian Community? Disappointment in Church 126 5.2.4.2. Faith as Hermeneutics 127 5.2.4.3. Evaluation 128 5.2.5. Vilmos's Story 128 5.2.5.1. "It takes all kinds to take the world!" Religion as the Place of Meaning Formation 129 5.2.5.2. Evaluation 131 5.2.6. Katalin's Story 131 5.2.6. Katalin's Story 132 5.2.6.1. Limit-situations of Life and the Stabilizing Function of Religion 132		5.2.2.2. A Religious Plateau-Experience	120
5.2.3.1. Connection to Church and the "DIY-faith"  5.2.3.2. Evaluation  5.2.4. Tamás's Story  5.2.4.1. Religious World View without Christian Community?  Disappointment in Church  5.2.4.2. Faith as Hermeneutics  5.2.4.3. Evaluation  128  5.2.5. Vilmos's Story  128  5.2.5.1. "It takes all kinds to take the world!" Religion  as the Place of Meaning Formation  129  5.2.5.2. Evaluation  131  5.2.6. Katalin's Story  131  5.2.6.1. Limit-situations of Life and the Stabilizing  Function of Religion  132		5.2.2.3. Evaluation	121
5.2.3.2. Evaluation 124 5.2.4. Tamás's Story 125 5.2.4.1. Religious World View without Christian Community? Disappointment in Church 126 5.2.4.2. Faith as Hermeneutics 127 5.2.4.3. Evaluation 128 5.2.5. Vilmos's Story 128 5.2.5.1. "It takes all kinds to take the world!" Religion as the Place of Meaning Formation 129 5.2.5.2. Evaluation 131 5.2.6. Katalin's Story 131 5.2.6.1. Limit-situations of Life and the Stabilizing Function of Religion 132		5.2.3. Zoltán's Story	121
5.2.4. Tamás's Story  5.2.4.1. Religious World View without Christian Community?  Disappointment in Church  5.2.4.2. Faith as Hermeneutics  5.2.4.3. Evaluation  5.2.5. Vilmos's Story  128  5.2.5.1. "It takes all kinds to take the world!" Religion  as the Place of Meaning Formation  129  5.2.5.2. Evaluation  131  5.2.6. Katalin's Story  131  5.2.6.1. Limit-situations of Life and the Stabilizing  Function of Religion  132		5.2.3.1. Connection to Church and the "DIY-faith"	123
5.2.4.1. Religious World View without Christian Community? Disappointment in Church  5.2.4.2. Faith as Hermeneutics 127 5.2.4.3. Evaluation 128 5.2.5. Vilmos's Story 128 5.2.5.1. "It takes all kinds to take the world!" Religion as the Place of Meaning Formation 129 5.2.5.2. Evaluation 131 5.2.6. Katalin's Story 131 5.2.6.1. Limit-situations of Life and the Stabilizing Function of Religion 132		5.2.3.2. Evaluation	124
Disappointment in Church 126 5.2.4.2. Faith as Hermeneutics 127 5.2.4.3. Evaluation 128 5.2.5. Vilmos's Story 128 5.2.5.1. "It takes all kinds to take the world!" Religion as the Place of Meaning Formation 129 5.2.5.2. Evaluation 131 5.2.6. Katalin's Story 131 5.2.6.1. Limit-situations of Life and the Stabilizing Function of Religion 132		5.2.4. Tamás's Story	125
5.2.4.2. Faith as Hermeneutics 127 5.2.4.3. Evaluation 128 5.2.5. Vilmos's Story 128 5.2.5.1. "It takes all kinds to take the world!" Religion as the Place of Meaning Formation 129 5.2.5.2. Evaluation 131 5.2.6. Katalin's Story 131 5.2.6.1. Limit-situations of Life and the Stabilizing Function of Religion 132		5.2.4.1. Religious World View without Christian Community?
5.2.4.3. Evaluation 128 5.2.5. Vilmos's Story 128 5.2.5.1. "It takes all kinds to take the world!" Religion as the Place of Meaning Formation 129 5.2.5.2. Evaluation 131 5.2.6. Katalin's Story 131 5.2.6.1. Limit-situations of Life and the Stabilizing Function of Religion 132		Disappointment in Church	126
5.2.5. Vilmos's Story  5.2.5.1. "It takes all kinds to take the world!" Religion as the Place of Meaning Formation  5.2.5.2. Evaluation  5.2.6. Katalin's Story  5.2.6.1. Limit-situations of Life and the Stabilizing Function of Religion  128  129  130  131  131  132		5.2.4.2. Faith as Hermeneutics	127
5.2.5.1. "It takes all kinds to take the world!" Religion as the Place of Meaning Formation 129 5.2.5.2. Evaluation 131 5.2.6. Katalin's Story 131 5.2.6.1. Limit-situations of Life and the Stabilizing Function of Religion 132		5.2.4.3. Evaluation	128
as the Place of Meaning Formation 129 5.2.5.2. Evaluation 131 5.2.6. Katalin's Story 131 5.2.6.1. Limit-situations of Life and the Stabilizing Function of Religion 132		5.2.5. Vilmos's Story	128
5.2.5.2. Evaluation 131 5.2.6. Katalin's Story 131 5.2.6.1. Limit-situations of Life and the Stabilizing Function of Religion 132		5.2.5.1. "It takes all kinds to take the world!" Religion
5.2.6. Katalin's Story 131 5.2.6.1. Limit-situations of Life and the Stabilizing Function of Religion 132		as the Place of Meaning Formation	129
5.2.6.1. Limit-situations of Life and the Stabilizing Function of Religion 132		5.2.5.2. Evaluation	131
Function of Religion 132		5.2.6. Katalin's Story	131
Function of Religion 132		5.2.6.1. Limit-situations of Life and the Stabilizing
5.2.6.2. Evaluation 134		Function of Religion	132
		5.2.6.2. Evaluation	134

Table of Contents

5.3. Conclusion	135
5.3.1. Variety of Mythobiography	135
5.3.2. Personal Myth	137
5.3.3. Connection Points between our Life and Christianity	138
5.3.4. Forms of Mythobiography	139
6. The Significance of the Life Story – Summary and Conclusion	141
6.1. Today's Appraisal of Life Stories	141
6.2. The Concept of Biographical Work and its General Purposes	143
6.3. The Religious Dimension of Biographical Reflection	145
6.3.1. The Christian Character of Life Story Work	146
6.3.1.1. Connection with the Other Individual	148
6.3.1.2. The Metaphorical Characteristic of the
Transforming Space	150
6.3.2. From Christian Perspective to Christian World Reading	151
6.3.2.1. The Story we rewrite as God's Children	152
6.3.3. Transformational Space as the Space of Conversation with God	153
6.4. Three Stories Intertwined	153
6.5. Life Story Work as a Way to Postmodern Man	155
Summary	157
Bibliography	161