

CALL FOR PAPERS
TDK in English Studies

The Institute of English Studies at Károli Gáspár University invites students at all levels of their studies to participate in the Student Research Conference (TDK) on 22 April 2022. Students who successfully present their papers will be qualified to submit their work for the National Conference for Student Research (OTDK) in 2023.

The Student Research Conference offers a platform for high-quality research in any of the fields taught at the Institute of English Studies (literature, linguistics, history, culture, language pedagogy, etc.). Presentations of approx. 20 minutes will be followed by a short discussion.

2 types of applications are accepted:

- Students wishing to participate in the TDK Research section should submit a research paper (at least 2000 words with notes and bibliography), which can be further developed for the OTDK. Those writing their degree theses can also apply by submitting a chapter of their work. Before applying, consult a supervisor and check the requirements for OTDK papers here:
<http://otdk.hu/media/uploads/35human2melleklet.pdf>
- Students can also take part in the TDK Practice section by sending in a 500-word abstract detailing their research topic and methods, together with the name of their supervisor.

Applications should be sent to Veronika Ruttkay (ruttkay.veronika@kre.hu).

The deadline for submissions is 8 April 2022.

For further information about the OTDK conference, please visit the website <http://otdk.hu/>.

Some hints if you consider applying:

- Find a good research topic (a good seminar paper or presentation may be developed into a TDK paper!)
- Find a supervisor from the Institute of English Studies (your instructors will be glad to assist you)
- Papers may be either in English or in Hungarian
- If you are in your final year: don't worry, your OTDK paper may overlap with your BA or MA thesis! (For further details see the otdk.hu website)
